HAMBURG EXPRESS IN COLLISION

Amsterdam, To-day.

Nine were killed and 20 injured yesterday afternoon when the Hamburg express crashed into the rear of a local train standing in the station of a Berlin suburb.

No explanation of the mishap is forthcoming.

Another mishap occurred on the Simplon Orient express nearing Belgrade. Fire broke out in one of the coaches and spread rapidly before the express was halted. The mail coach was saved after it had taken fire.—Reuter.

BRUTAL NAZI PURGE IN BAVARIA

London, To-day.

Reports from Vienna indicate that reprisals following the Munich bomb explosion are being conducted ruthlessly in Bavaria.

The reports state that more than 5,000 arrests directly connected with the explosion have been made and that the prisoners are being kept awake at night by the noise of shots, indicating that executions are continuous.

Austrian sources declare that a purge is in progress after the style of June, 1934, except that the new purge is far more brutal.—Reuter.

ITALY AND REICH

(SPECIAL TO "CHINA MAIL")

BRUSSELS, TO-DAY.

COMMENTING ON THE RECENT SPANISH AND ITALIAN DEMARCHE TO THE REICH ASSERTING THAT BOTH COUNTRIES ARE INTERESTED IN RESPECT TO HOLLAND'S AND BELGIUM'S NEUTRALITY, THE NEWSPAPER "LE SOIR" STATES:

"Although official information is lacking, we know from a good source that the demarche was not drafted in common between Rome and Madrid."

"Both Ambassadors visited the Wilhelmstrasse on the same day—Monday—but while Italy's notification was cautious and indirect, Spain's was most categorical."—Havas.

FRITZ KUHN EXPOSURE

(SPECIAL TO "CHINA MAIL")

Brussels, To-day.

It is reliably reported that Germany is considering the dissolution of the German-American Bund, following the trial of the Bund leader, Fritz Kuhn.

The trial entirely discredited the Nazi organization in the United States.—Havas.

YUGO-SLAV ANTI-NAZI SCENES

(SPECIAL TO "CHINA MAIL")

Belgrade, To-day.

Yugoslav students have demonstrated against the anti-Czech measures in Prague and the execution of nine Czech students.

The German Legation was heavily guarded, while the demonstrators cheered and sang anthems in front of the former Czech Legation.—Havas.

C.I.O. FOR ROOSEVELT THIRD TERM

(SPECIAL TO "CHINA MAIL")

NEW YORK, TO-DAY.
BY A RESOLUTION VOTED BY A HUGE MAJORITY, THE NEW YORK STATE CONVENTION OF THE COMMITTEE OF INDUSTRIAL ORGANIZATION (OF WHICH MR. JOHN L. LEWIS IS THE LEADER) HAS DECIDED TO SUPPORT PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S CANDIDACY FOR THE WHITE HOUSE SHOULD HE DECIDE TO RUN FOR A THIRD TERM NEXT YEAR.

The resolution further declared that the New Deal's social reforms must be carried out, while President Roosevelt is the best qualified person to pursue the nation's social re-organization.

The convention represented 900,000 workers of the State of New York.—Havas.

NO PUPPETS IN POLAND

(SPECIAL TO "CHINA MAIL")

Bucharest, To-day.

Germany is vainly attempting to create a "puppet government" in Poland, it is reliably reported.

The presidency has been offered to several personalities, notably M. Stefan Starzynski, Mayor of Warsaw, who has been allowed to pursue his duties under the supervision of the German police.

All have refused.—Havas.

BRUSSELS PAPER RAIDED

(SPECIAL TO "CHINA MAIL")

Brussels, To-day.
The Belgian police have raided the offices of the Communist newspaper "Voix du Peuple," publication of which is forbidden.—Havas.

WEATHER FORECAST:—East winds, moderate; cloudy.

HITLER AGAIN OUTWITTED IN THE BALKAN ZONE

(SPECIAL TO "CHINA MAIL")

Paris, To-day.

THE SOVIETS HAVE outmanoeuvred the Nazis in the Balkans just as they did in the Baltic, in the opinion of observers here, commenting on the change in the Nazi attitude towards the Balkan neutral bloc.

Germany has recently been favouring the formation of such a bloc, under the Italian aegis, thus closing the way for Russia to the Mediterranean.

Soviet Russia, however, although outwardly maintaining good relations with the Balkan countries, has brought sufficient pressure on Germany, to compel her to inform the Balkan states that "Berlin does not favour their diplomatic activity, which is not friendly to Russia, Germany's friend."

Another warning is understood to have been given by Berlin to Rumania and Bulgaria against the formation of a Balkan bloc supported by Turkey, as Ankara maintains close relations with Paris and London.

In the presence of a new diplomatic defeat, Germany is attempting to divert the activity of her dangerous ally towards other regions, notably Asia.—Havas.

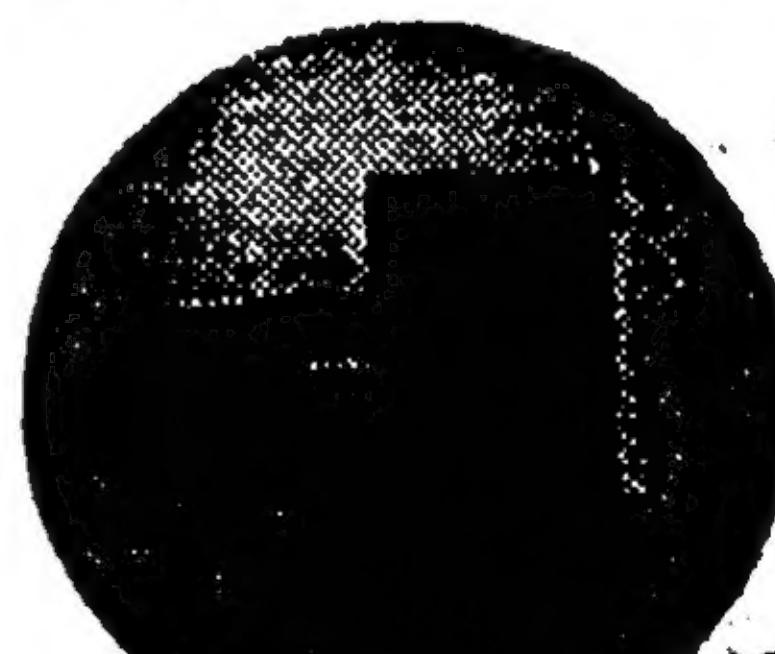

ARTILLERY FIRE INTENSIFIED

Paris, To-day.

An official communiqué states that artillery fire increased last evening.

A small local action by Nazi patrols was repulsed with a loss of six killed. One German prisoner was taken.—Reuter.

To-morrow: "ACTION FOR LEAVENWORTH"

NAZI QUEST FOR WAY OUT

HITLER PLANS THAT WON'T
WORK OUT

London, To-day.

THE WAR SEEMS to be going on in every chancery, legation and council room but with little incident on land, sea or in the air, said the BBC military observer over Daventry yesterday.

There is talk on both sides and threats from one—but little apparent action.

One has the impression that Hitler and Ribbentrop are questing in every direction, working out plan after plan only to be told by their soldiers and airmen that the plan will not work.

Neutrals are less alarmed than they were, while the Allies are covering up, unleashing a left poke to the body every now and again.

Needless to say, this "left" is the navy, which is fighting the enemy steadily and remorselessly and with wearing effect. The really vital sphere at the moment is the sea and it is there that the enemy is losing most decisively.

There is also rather more air activity. The most interesting event, of course, has been the raid on the Shetlands by four aircraft, which dropped bombs doing only trifling damage, on November 13. This was the first raid in which bombs actually dropped on British soil.

AN EXPERIMENT

It was probably an experiment to see how the bombers carried their loads over that long distance and how they fared. As they got away, the German propaganda machine has made much of the flight and circulated the quite unfounded tale that two British flying boats were destroyed and a cruiser "probably" damaged.

That word "probably" is an unusually neat touch, as it almost—but not quite—gives an air of reality to a cock-and-bull story. There may be some more air raids at the next full moon.

DAYLIGHT RAIDS

The R.A.F. has carried out a series of daylight raids over Germany, not without loss, it is true, but bringing back over 100 detailed photographs of objectives, including aerodromes, as trophies.

On land, nothing much has happened, save in one case, when a German battalion broke into the French outpost line only to come under costly fire from the heavy artillery of the Maginot Line.—Reuter.

BRITISH POLICEMAN

Chungking, To-day.

A British policeman patrolling near the Japanese Naigai Wata Cotton Mills in Robinson Road, Shanghai, was arrested by the Japanese authorities yesterday, according to a Shanghai report.

ETERNAL TRIANGLE MURDER PLOT ALLEGATIONS

ACCUSED OF HAVING endeavoured to persuade or proposed to persons to commit murder on September 28, and between September 28 and October 8, Li Wo, 32, pleaded not guilty before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, at the Sessions this morning.

It is alleged that he solicited four persons, in all, to murder Mak Chui-chuen, a salesman, to whose wife he was paying attention.

Mr. J. B. Prentis, Assistant Crown Counsel, conducted the case for the Crown. Accused was not legally represented.

The jury was composed of Messrs. N. A. Tenoff, (foreman), Teng Ting, C. A. Lopez, Yu Tse-ling, Wong Kui-kwong, Wong Kai-chi and Sing Shing-kwong.

Mr. Prentis said that the Crown case was that accused on September 28 tried to get two men to commit the murder, and that between September 28 and October 8, he tried to get two others to commit the murder.

Mak Chi-chuen, a salesman, living at No. 62, Tung Choi Street, had been married to Chan Loi for 10 years and had four children. His work made it necessary for him to be away from home from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily.

HOME EARLY

On July 20, the husband returned home unexpectedly and found his wife and accused sitting on a stool on the verandah close together chattering. When accused left the flat without a word, Mak asked his wife who the man was and was told that he was her cousin. He pointed out that they had been married over 10 years and he had never before heard of a cousin. A quarrel arose and there was subsequent quarrelling. The wife went out more often at night, and one night stayed away altogether.

On October 8, Mak went to a tea house in Mongkok in the early morning and found his wife and accused in a cubicle drinking tea. Mak scolded his wife and she left. He told accused that she was his kit fat wife and warned him to keep away. Accused asked what proof Mak had that she was his wife. He attempted to strike the husband. The husband dodged the blow and blew a police whistle. Accused ran out of the tea shop.

VISIT TO POLICE

On October 8, two men visited the Police and the following facts came to light.

On September 27, a man named Ma So was asked by accused to get two persons as he wanted to "strike" some-one. Arrangements were made for two men to meet accused, who said he wanted to get a man out of the way. At this one said that that was not his line. He would not mind helping accused to beat some-one, or fight.

Accused said he would pay them, but they replied: Not even for $10,000.

Accused went next day to another place and there met Ng Kwong, to whom he detailed a proposition. Accused and Ng Kwong met in a tea house that evening and there discussed the matter. Other meetings followed and it was agreed that Ng Kwong was to be paid $70, ten next morning, and the rest later.

Ng Kwong later told accused that he needed an assistant to carry out the murder and suggested a fellow lodger, Ng Hoi. Ng Hoi was also paid $10.

WATCH KEPT

Several watches were kept for the husband, when he left work, but the men were unable to do anything, either because he was accompanied by a friend or got into a bus too soon.

On October 8, the men told accused they had no weapons and he purchased two files.

In the meantime, the men realised that the business was serious and reported to the Police. On instructions they kept their appointment. Accused was annoyed by their late arrival and then said he had left the files at home. He went back for them and, on his return, was arrested with them in his girdle.

The case is proceeding.

JAPANESE CROSS THE KWANGSI BORDER: HEAVY AIR BOMBING OF NANNING

Kwong Chow Wan, To-day.

IT IS OFFICIALLY confirmed that Japanese troops crossed the border into Kwangsi yesterday morning, this being the first time foreign troops have set foot on Kwangsi soil.

Two raids by some 20 Japanese planes were made yesterday afternoon on Nanning. High explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped at random and many buildings were demolished.

Fires were still blazing furiously away late last night according to the latest reports received here.

The Japanese have advanced from Taitse (The Big Temple) but are encountering organised resistance from Kwangsi troops.

A large number of Chinese troops are reported manning the defence lines outside Nanning and troops are pouring into that sector from Kweilin.

PAI IN KWEILIN

PARIS TO-DAY.
NEW PROOF OF THE CLUMSI-
NESS, AND UTTER DISRESPECT
FOR TRUTH, OF GERMAN PROPA-GANDA IS GATHERED FROM GER-MAN REPORTS ON THE JAPANESE
OPERATIONS IN SOUTH CHINA.
German propaganda asserted yesterday that the Japanese, after occupying Fongcheng, crossed the border of French Indo-China and penetrated 50 miles inside French territory.

Despite the obvious absurdity of the news it is pointed out that reports from French Indo-China show that the territory is not threatened and that operations are not taking place on the Indo-China border. — Havas.

FRENCH CAPTURES OF NAZI SHIPS

Paris, To-day.
"During the last four weeks of war the tonnage of German merchantmen captured on the high seas by our patrols exceeded by several thousand tons the tonnage of French merchantmen lost through enemy action." — Reuter.

BREAKDOWN IN GERMAN TRADE TALK

(SPECIAL TO "CHINA MAIL")

Bucharest, To-day.
German-Rumanian trade talks are believed to have reached a deadlock. Some observers fear that Germany will take very serious measures to compel Rumania to enter the Reich's economic system.

Government quarters, however, are confident that Germany has closed herself to every possibility of direct pressure against Bucharest.

Germany could control Rumanian oil and wheat resources only through threatening the occupation of the country but such a threat could be carried out only after the occupation of Hungary or with the co-operation of the Soviet.

Both eventualities appear highly improbable. — Havas.

NO INCREASE IN FREIGHT RATES

(SPECIAL TO "CHINA MAIL")

Washington, To-day.
The Pan-American Economic and Financial Conference decided that despite the war situation in Europe not to raise the freight transportation rates between American ports. — Havas.

CIVILISATION IN DEBT OF FRANCE, SAYS MR. EDEN

London, To-day.
MR. ANTHONY EDEN, the Dominions Secretary, broadcasting in French last night, referred to his recent visit to the front:

Mr. Eden said: "The dominant note wherever I went was the quiet determination of males and females, young and old, civilians and soldiers.

"Everywhere was a fixity of purpose and a determination this time to make an end of recurrent wars of aggression."

"No one doubts final victory, and with it a new page of history must be turned."

As regards the Maginot Line, the patience and thoroughness with which France had completed her defences and trained her armies, thus not for the first time in history France had placed all civilisation in her debt. — Reuter.

ITALY'S DENIAL

Rome, To-day.
Reports that Italy had informed the German Government that she was interested in preserving the neutrality of Belgium and Holland, are authoritatively denied here. — Reuter.

LESSONS OF LAST WAR TO GOOD PROFIT

London, To-day.
Mr. Hore-Belisha, the War Minister, who has been visiting the B.E.F. in France, said in an interview before leaving the front: "We are winning the war comfortably."

Mr. Hore-Belisha, who spent practically all the hours of daylight on Saturday visiting various sectors of the British line went into the French area.

Before he returns to England, it is reported, he will see M. Daladier, the French Premier, will visit the headquarters of General Gamelin, Commander-in-Chief of all forces.

The War Minister said: "The spirit of troops is noteworthy. I have been impressed with the efficiency of administrative arrangements."

"I think the lessons of the last war have been put to very good profit. Transport which broke down in the last war has been exceptionally well run. The general smoothness with which everything is running is most satisfactory. The activity on our section of front has also impressed me." — British Wireless.

"HITLER'S WORST ENEMY" PREDICTS SPRING REVOLT

Paris, To-day.

"GERMANY WILL SOON BE ready for an anti-Hitler revolution," declared Otto Strasser, known as "Hitler's worst enemy," in an interview with the "Paris Soir."

Strasser said he was given four hours to leave Switzerland after the Munich explosion because the Germans were demanding his extradition, describing him as the instigator of the crime.

Strasser, who has been the leader of the anti-Nazi Black Front since the Nazis murdered his brother, declared he thought at first that his friends had organised the Munich attempt, but he now considered it could only have been caused by the Gestapo.

SPRING OF 1940

Before a revolution in Germany three conditions were necessary, namely;

Germans who still believe in Hitler must feel the horrors a war;

The Reich must suffer a military check;

Privations must become more biting.

"I consider that these conditions will be fulfilled by the Spring of 1940."—Reuter.

AUTARKY IN ITALY

Rome, To-day.

Signor Gayda, writing in "Voce d'Italia," said the progress of Italy's economic self-sufficiency was such that it was possible for her to keep out of war.

Italy still has under arms four classes called up last August, and now has approximately 1,500,000 men ready.—Reuter.

LATVIA TO MAKE THE BEST OF IT

Kaunas, To-day.

In a broadcast on the 21st anniversary of Latvia's independence, the President of Latvia said that the country is now in a better position and its forces are stronger.

The non-aggression pact with Soviet Russia has reinforced the security of her frontier and the friendly stationing of foreign troops in Latvia had been successfully accomplished.

Speaking of the repatriation of Germans, he said that in spite of the economic difficulties caused by this step, it had benefitted the country in a political sense; relations with Germany were now on a firm footing as regards national questions.—Reuter.

Messrs. Wassiamull and Assomull and Company, of No. 46, Queen's Road Central were defrauded of a quantity of silk, valued at $90 on Saturday.

LITHUANIANS ORDERED OUT OF MEMEL

NAZI TANKS ON PATROL

Brutal Repressive Measures Taken In Prague

HUNDREDS DRAFTED TO BUCHENWALD

(SPECIAL TO "CHINA MAIL")

WHILE THREE MORE Czechs, two of whom were police officials, were executed, Nazi tanks patrolled Prague streets throughout the day, being a reminder of the events in March when the Germans invaded Czechoslovakia.

Meanwhile widespread repression is being carried out mainly against Czech intellectuals and many universities have been raided.

At dawn yesterday, motorised detachments of the German State police arrived from the Reich and immediately surrounded Sveilla and Masaryk Colleges and invaded the premises.

Students were brutally dragged out from their beds, thrown into lorries, and carried to concentration camps.

Later the Gestapo invaded several other colleges and the medicine and law sections of the Polytechnic Institute arresting all the students and professors. Later all of them were thrown into the concentration camp at Buchenwald, near Weimar.

SOKOL ARRESTS

Gestapo squads also arrested several members of patriotic organisations, including Sokols.

Arrests, since yesterday, have reached several thousands. Machine-guns are posted at the entrance to all German buildings. — Havas.

50,000 ARRESTS REPORTED

Paris, To-day. There have been 50,000 arrests in Bohemia and Moravia since Friday, according to a despatch from the Austrian frontier.

The despatch reports the arrests of "certain political personalities." — Reuter.

THE SOWING OF THE DRAGON'S TEETH

New York, To-day. Commenting on Germany's mass arrests of Czechs the "New York Times" says that now the Germans have sown the dragon's teeth they have given the Czechs a sacred cause which they will never forget.

When the time comes, the Czechs will rise and strike, and the young men who have just died will march at the head of their battalions. — Reuter.

CZECH ACTION ABROAD

Washington, To-day. The Czech Legation in Washington and Czech consulates throughout the United States lowered their flags to half-mast when they received the sad news of the murder of the Czech youths by the Nazis. Such an action for ordinary citizens has not been carried out for many years. — Reuter.

NEUTRAL PROTESTS

London, To-day. Such extracts from the neutral press, relating to the Nazi action in Czechoslovakia in the last few days, as have so far reached London, indicate that the extreme severity of the measures reported to have been taken to repress expressions of nationalist sentiment and popular discontent, has incurred the disapproval of neutral

HOW HACHA INCURRED NAZI WRATH

(SPECIAL TO "CHINA MAIL")

Amsterdam, To-day.

Events leading to President Hacha's internment in Lany Castle are outlined by the newspaper "Het Volk."

Demonstrations in Prague on October 28—the Czech National Day—provoked very serious disturbances and the Nazis took ruthless measures, even shooting into a crowd.

The Gestapo chief, Herr Himmler, rebuked his subordinates for methods detrimental for German propaganda abroad, and Baron von Neurath, "Protector" of Bohemia and Moravia suggested that he would try to remedy the situation.

OFFER REJECTED

Von Neurath called on Dr. Hacha and proposed important reforms to bring an end to the "demonstration of loyalty." Czechia, he said, would be given wider autonomous powers in return for declaring war on France and Great Britain, sending a "symbolical army" to the Front.

When Dr. Hacha refused, the Nazis declared that he was overworked and placed him under "home arrest."

The paper "Het Volk" declares that Germany realizes the impossibility of maintaining Bohemia's present status and yet does not want, for propaganda reasons, to incorporate the territory into the Reich. — Havas.

NO VIOLENT REACTION

London, To-day. It is reported from Prague that hitherto, there has been no violent reaction to the Gestapo executions. Repressive measures continue, and arrested continue on a large scale. — Reuter.

WINNING THE WAR COMFORTABLY

Paris, To-day. "The men of the British Expeditionary Force are all cheerful and their health is good. I am confident we are winning the war comfortably," said the War Secretary, Mr. Leslie Hore-Belisha, before he left the British front yesterday. — Reuter.

NEW DEAL IN AMERICAS

(SPECIAL TO "CHINA MAIL")

Guatemala, To-day. The exchange committee of the Inter-American Conference has proposed four resolutions concerning:

The standardization of customs procedure;

A means of establishing exchange levels for the various American currencies, in order to facilitate inter-American payments;

The prevention of smuggling;

And regular contacts between the various treasuries on economic, financial and other data. — Havas.

HOLD UP IN CITY

Five men armed with daggers held up pedestrians in Connaught Road Central near the Sincere Company at 7 a.m. to-day. They escaped with $14.78.

PRAGUE DISORDERS FOSTERED BY NAZIS!

(SPECIAL TO "CHINA MAIL")

Berne, To-day.

Deutsche Nachrichten Büro, the official German news agency, reports that martial law has been proclaimed in several districts of Bohemia and Moravia, following the recent demonstrations in Prague.

The population applies only to the non-German populations of the cities of Prague, Kladno, Beraun and Horowitz.

It is disclosed the Prague's demonstration last Thursday was a Nazi-sponsored anti-Czech show staged by Fascist groups founded by Germans and whose total membership is only about 5,000 throughout the Protectorate.

POLICE ARRESTED

When the demonstrators became dangerous, the Czech police tried to disperse them, whereupon the Gestapo arrested several policemen.

Dr. Hans Frank, German state minister and head of the Polish administration, is also believed to be the "true master" of Bohemia and Moravia while von Neurath is a mere figure-head.

The Germans apparently wish to replace the government headed by General Elias by a new government more docile to Berlin. — Havas.

NO PARADES AND NO FLOWERS—BY REQUEST

(SPECIAL TO "CHINA MAIL")

London, To-day.

MR. ANTHONY EDEN, Secretary of State for the Dominions, who recently visited Paris and the Front with the Dominion representatives, yesterday made a radio speech in French in which he said:

"To many of us, this visit brought back memories of 20 years ago.

"There is not, perhaps, the air of adventure which prevailed at the beginning of the last war—no parades, no flowers.

BRITON SET FREE

SHANGHAI, TO-DAY.

AFTER BEING HELD IN CUSTODY FOR MORE THAN FIVE HOURS, MR. EGEBERG, OF THE S.M.P., WAS RELEASED YESTERDAY EVENING, BUT THE TWO CHINESE CONSTABLES ARE STILL DETAINED.

Before his release, Egeberg was prevailed upon to sign a blank piece of paper as his confession.

Accompanied as it was by some firing, emanating from an unascertained source, the Japanese action in detaining the Police officers created considerable tension in the entire vicinity.

The Italian Marines in whose sector the incident occurred, took over control for some time last night. — Reuter.

"We know by experience what war means, but everywhere is seen the firm resolve to put a definite end to periodically renewed aggression.

"No one doubts our victory.

"We visited the British sector. The soldiers' health and training were excellent.

"The British sector is being rapidly reinforced.

"We also visited the famous Maginot Line, defended by an army which knows no peer for calm courage, training and efficiency.

FRANCE'S CONTRIBUTION

"France has made heavy financial and economic sacrifices to build this Line. To-day, liberty-loving peoples recognize with gratitude the debt they owe to these defences and to the army which is occupying them.

"It is easy to imagine how different the situation would have been had not France persisted in bringing up to perfection her army and fortifications." — Havas.

HOLLAND ENTITLED TO MAKE VIGOROUS PROTEST

London, To-day.

"The sinking of the Simon Bolivar is clearly a breach of international law," said Mr. Ivor Jennings in the course of a broadcast on the legal aspects yesterday.

The Dutch Government, he said, would be entitled to make the very strongest of protests to Berlin.

The laying of mines is covered by the 8th Hague Convention, which was signed by Britain, France, Germany and other powers in 1907. This convention makes a distinction between anchored and unanchored mines.

Unanchored mines must be so made as to render themselves harmless one hour after being laid. Anchored mines must not be laid unless they are of a type which renders itself harmless on breaking loose.

It is not known what type sank the Simon Bolivar.

If it was an unanchored mine, it was clearly a breach of the treaty. If it was an anchored mine which broke loose, there was again a breach of the treaty.

THE LAW

If it was an anchored mine, the Hague Convention does not apply. Of course, Germany might argue that the convention does not apply in any case, since it was not signed by Poland.

But here, customary international law applies. Neutral passenger or cargo ships may not be sunk by any means whatever. The British Admiralty informs neutrals of the presence of minefields and only lays those which become harmless on breaking loose.

The indiscriminate laying of mines in open sea is directly contrary to international law, concluded Mr. Jennings, but—in 1914, a German ship, the Konigen Louise was sunk while laying mines in the open sea.—Reuter.

CASTLE PEAK ROAD ACCIDENT

Mr. A. Malcolm, of Malcolm and Company, while driving in Castle Peak Road towards Laichikok on Saturday afternoon, accidentally knocked down an 8-year-old Chinese girl, Yuen Hing. The girl was admitted to the Kowloon Hospital.

MRS. SANDIFORD, wife of a Trinidad banker, and a survivor of the Simon Bolivar disaster, paid a high tribute to men of the Navy and other ships which dashed to the rescue.

In an interview in London yesterday Mrs. Sandiford described the scene on board the Simon Bolivar. She said: "I had just gone down to the cabin to get some things for my daughter, Jean.

"I was unable to get the cases open, so I sent Jean for her father. Soon afterwards there was a terrific explosion."

Mrs. Sandiford staggered out through the dark passage which was filled with steam and got to the top deck, where she found her husband injured.

"He told me he was twice thrown up into the air by the explosion."

A swift search revealed their daughter Jean, who was dazed, and the three climbed into the same lifeboat.

"The sun-deck was awash when chief officer Smit left it.

SCOTTISH NURSE

"In our lifeboat was a Scottish nurse who, in spite of her own back being injured, began in a businesslike manner to attend to the injuries of the others and make them comfortable."

Mrs. Sandiford believed that a number of people forward and below must have been trapped.

"In the passage I saw several crawling out of a cabin. Some of them must have been stewards.

"I don't know how they could have escaped because there was nobody down there to pull them out."

"After we had landed we were in the waiting-room when an air raid warning was given. Everybody was taken down into the shelters, some being carried on stretchers.

GIRL'S JUMP

"Among the passengers who jumped into the sea was a girl returning home after finishing her schooling on the Continent. She got into a lifeboat, but told me that as nobody lowered the boat she decided to jump for it."

One of the problems of the nurses and doctors was the vast quantities of tenacious oil with which the survivors were covered.

The hospital authorities had to make an emergency application for the issue of petrol for cleaning them.—Reuter.

NAZI-DUTCH AIR CLASH

Amsterdam, To-day.

A clash between a Dutch fighter and a German machine violating Dutch neutrality occurred yesterday, in exactly the same circumstances as the incident reported on Saturday.

The Dutch plane was sent up when the Nazi machine appeared. There was an exchange of machine-gun fire before the German plane succeeded in getting away.

The Netherlands Government has lodged a further protest.

Belgium is protesting about a clash on a bigger scale over Belgium in which several Belgian pursuits and Nazi reconnaissance planes returning from France were concerned.—Reuter.

H.K. AIR MAIL MISSING

It is understood that the missing Hong Kong air mail, some eight bags, taken by the Japanese from the Daridanus at Weichow, to Canton, and overlooked when the earlier batch was re-transferred to Hong Kong, is being brought this afternoon or tomorrow.

Originally, the Japanese promised to send it down on Saturday, but for some reason a further delay has occurred.

Mr. J. W. Brown, of No. 8, Cornwall Road, has reported the theft of brass window, bolts and hinges from her bathing shed at the 12½-mile beach in the New Territories.

COMMUNAL RIOTS

Bombay, To-day.

Six Hindus and five Moslems were killed in a serious communal riot in the Bombay Presidency yesterday. The disturbance began when Hindu shops were set on fire by Moslems.

Curfew has been imposed in the district.—Reuter.

INDIGNATION AND SYMPATHY

London, To-day.

THE SINKING OF THE Royal Dutch Mail liner, Simon Bolivar, has evoked feelings of indignation and sympathy.

The disaster adds more lives and another fine ship to the long list of casualties inflicted upon neutrals by German ruthlessness and disregard for international law.

Among the more recent of these have been the sinking of the Danish liner, Canada, by an unnotified German mine and the torpedoing, without warning or attempt to place the crew in safety, of the Norwegian tanker, Arne Kjode.

International law demands that if a belligerent lays mines he must take every possible precaution to ensure the safety of commercial navigation and must, for this reason, declared the danger area and warn shipping to keep clear. The Allies have announced every danger area created by them.

CLOSING OF BALTIC

Germany has announced some danger areas, notably those designed to close the Baltic and force all neutral shipping passing in or out of that sea to use the Kiel Canal, thus submitting to the German Contraband Control and bringing to Germany much-needed foreign currency by the payment of canal dues.

German U-boats are, however, making a practice of laying clumps of mines in the channels used by merchant shipping traffic on this side of the North Sea.

The establishment of these danger areas is not announced, as their whole objective is to inflict losses before the minefields are discovered and swept.

NONSENSE

In the case of the Danish ship, Canada, Germany at once averred the ship had struck a British mine.

It is hardly commonsense to imagine that a maritime nation should illegally lay mines in channels extensively used by its own shipping!

Moreover, all the evidence, and the statement of the master of the Canada proved it to have been a German mine. If a British warship is damaged by one of these illegal minefields, Germany is only too pleased to claim it as a great success for German arms. Yet if a neutral ship is sunk in this way the German minefield is at once announced as British by the German Propaganda Ministry.

MINES WASHED UP

Further proof of the illegal laying of mines by Germany in shipping routes on the west side of the North Sea has been secured by the fact that many German mines have been washed up on the East Coast.

The effect of this ruthless German warfare against neutral shipping is shown by the following quotation from a Norwegian newspaper, referring to the torpedoing, without warning of the Norwegian tanker, Arne Kjode: "It is proof of open warfare excluding the aggressor from a civilised community. Such matters can only be resolved when the nation that has thus raised its hand against all, finds that every man's hand is against her. One cannot exceed the bounds of humanity even in war." — British Wireless.

TWO SCENES

SCENE I.

Hotel Kaiserhof, Berlin, 2:30 p.m.

It is the late lunch hour. Many of the guests are already seated at table, but the whole staff is on tip-toe. Whisperings here and there, a party at mind hurrying with its meal as that one table is asked whether it would particular table is required for a very special person.

he cares one way or the other what the world thinks of and feels about the war he started with the conquest of Poland. But by threatening the small nations he is building blockades against his own armies, and those blockades ultimately will have devastating effects upon his supply lines —if in fact that is not already true. — "Manila Bulletin."

* * * THE SAME MAN

The man who flew to Berchtesgaden and then to Godesberg and then to Munich, however, is the same man who has now told Herr Hitler that the peace on which the Third Reich has continued to count for victory is not in the British vocabulary. Peace based on the abuse of confidence in the pledged word, peace built on the ashes of Polish cities and on the moral ruins of Czech democracy, peace balanced on the violently shifting policy of opportunism which could lead to a marriage of National Socialism and Bolshevism in Moscow, peace that even now is regarded by the signers of the Russo-German general aggression pact as opportunity to divide Europe between them — that peace, Mr. Chamberlain stated, London sees as surrender.

The approval voiced in the House of Commons and along London's darkened streets is an approval which does not ignore the possible costs of perseverance on the field Herr Hitler himself chose when he marched on Poland. No Briton so sanguine as to expect the Third Reich's reply to be confined to words; many expected the answer to come from the skies over blacked-out London. But No is No. And Berlin's apparently hopeful reference to intervention by the United States shows the Third Reich is beginning to understand.

Millions the world over are hoping, working and praying for peace. Those called upon to make sacrifices for it are waiting to hear, in more specific terms than they have yet heard, what are the war and peace aims of the Allies. They would like to see the blue-print for reconstruction, to consult frankly with the architects of the world's to-morrow. — "Christian Science Monitor."

* * * STALIN THE "ALLY"

Stalin becomes not the ally in arms of Hitler but a benevolent neutral, whose benevolence has to be stimulated not merely by a heavy retaining fee, but by repeated and substantial refreshers. It is true that the new Russo-German agreement provides that if the Allies do not acquiesce in the subjugation and dismemberment of Poland, and call further hostilities off, the partners in perfidy will consider together what measures they will take.

As long as Russian complaisance is necessary to Germany, while German complaisance is no longer necessary to Russia, it may be conjectured that Stalin will not readily be a party to any measures which involve his abandonment of a formal neutrality. That neutral status has already enabled him, without risk or conflict, to possess himself of rich prizes, among which Estonia is added to half of Poland. Nor is it to be overlooked that the Moscow negotiations have failed —with the consent and even connivance of Stalin—to detach Turkey from her undertakings to the Western democracies. On the contrary, Turkey's adherence to them is proclaimed, and a Turkish military mission is on its way to this country. It is an honourable characteristic of the Turk to be faithful to his engagements, and the virtue shines brighter than ever against the background of treachery in which to-day it finds its setting. — "Daily Telegraph."

It possibly may be temporarily convenient to trample on the weak simply because they are in the way and are weak, but it's cowardly. In the long run it will be costly. The strategy of a drive through the Netherlands, Belgium or Switzerland will not decide the present war. Such strategy possibly might net a temporary advantage, but the ultimate result will be the crystallization of world sentiment and a corresponding reinforcing of the behind-the-line reserves in material resources.

The Hitler attitude toward world sentiment still is a puzzle. It is difficult to determine right now whether

THREE MORE SHIPS SUNK

MINE DISASTERS OFF ENGLISH EAST COAST

London, To-day.

JUST BEFORE MIDNIGHT last night, news was received in London that three more ships have been sunk off the East Coast of the British Isles in circumstances similar to the Simon Bolivar outrage.

Two of them were neutrals and one British. The Italian steamer, Gracia, of 5,800 tons, was Italy's first shipping loss of the war.

Another victim was the Swedish freighter, Borgholm, of 1,590 tons, and the British steamer was a craft of 2,500.

Full details of the sinkings is not yet known, and there is no information yet regarding the loss of life.

BOLIVAR DISASTER

In the meantime, it is revealed that only 100 persons are now thought to have lost their lives in the Simon Bolivar disaster, less than originally feared.

It is, however, revealed that no fewer than 44 of the missing passengers are British.

Victims in hospital in London were visited by the Netherlands Minister yesterday. — Reuter.

DEEP IMPRESSION

Paris, To-day. The sinking of the Simon Bolivar has caused a deep impression in Paris.

"Intransigeant" says it gives sinister confirmation of the report that the Germans, despairing of the efficacy of their torpedoes, were going to use submarines as minelayers.

This abominable weapon, says the newspaper, is forbidden under international law, but the Germans could not be expected to neglect this form of murder.—Reuter.

100 MISSING

London, To-day. About 400 passengers, mostly Dutch, but including 75 Britons, were on board the Netherlands liner Simon Bolivar when she was hit by two German mines in the North Sea on Saturday.

It is feared that 100 have lost their lives. Of the survivors, 50 were badly injured and received first aid attention from doctors and nurses on the quay-side before being removed to hospital.

The survivors also included 16 young children and six babes in arms; most of them are being accommodated in St. Bartholomew's Hospital, London.

According to survivors, the explosion of the first mine killed many outright and flung others into the sea. The angle of the ship held up the launching of her port-side lifeboats.

The second explosion shattered a lifeboat as it was nearing the water and killed several people.

The sinking of the Simon Bolivar is the greatest non-naval disaster of the war. — Reuter.

APPETISER

People living in a country house "somewhere in Kent" regretfully complained to the nearby R.A.F. depot recently. For several days they had been awakened by the regular seven a.m. arrival of an R.A.F. machine which circled repeatedly over the house and dived with a hideous roar low over the gabled roof. Finally they telephoned to the C.O. of the depot.

That afternoon two chastened and apologetic young pilots arrived to promise that the thing would never occur again. Over tea their host asked, "But was there any reason for choosing our house every morning?"

"Oh," said one of them, "you see, your house and lake are Berchtesgaden, and we like to bomb it every morning before breakfast."

Sub-Inspector Orem said that the raid was carried out on Saturday night. Some of the cubicles were locked. Inside them were men partly undressed, with girls in attendance.

Mr. Shaftain, A.S.P., asked that a serious view be taken. A detective was sent to the establishment, in Lockhart Road, before the warrant was taken out and his information established that the place was run either as a brothel or a depot for the supply of prostitutes. Defendant had made no attempt to secure a licence.

On defendant declaring his inability to pay the fine, the Police applied for a distress warrant, enabling them to seize the furniture.

WHERE WILL HITLER DELIVER HIS BLOW IN THE WEST?

Few soldiers would care to have to solve the strategic problem which Hitler has set his General Staff as a consequence of his having counted too confidently on the acceptance by the Allies of the fait accompli in Poland.

The problem, of course, as is the case generally in strategy, is not purely military; economic and political factors are essential elements in it and must be weighed. The internal economic condition of Germany and the morale of the German people in particular require special consideration—the more so if we accept the view authoritatively held that in these respects the condition of Germany at present is on a par with what it had been reduced to by 1917 in the last war.

INDECISIVE AIR ATTACK

What is the essential feature of the military problem? It is obviously that the opposing armies confront each other in elaborately fortified positions in an arena which, considering their size, is extraordinarily restricted in length, and is further restricted, not only by the Rhine, which may be considered an almost impassable obstacle, but by mountainous country and by minor river lines.

Politically it may be said that the Allies are committed to offensive action, and therefore, from a purely military standpoint, the simplest solution would be for the German Army, in a strong position, to stand on the defensive. That would be the obvious course if Hitler were confident that the country's economic condition and morale could, over a long period, withstand the pressure of blockade.

As economists, however, maintain that the assistance that can be given her by Russia or neighbouring neutrals would be insufficient for her needs, a military commentator is justified in examining the courses open to Germany if she is compelled for economic internal reasons to take the offensive.

One course open to her while her army stands on the defensive is to confine offensive action to air attacks on opponents' territory, trusting to breaking down the will of their civil population.

Some years ago Goering and other extreme believers in air power might have advocated this course—and they still may. Obviously, however, the chances of achieving decision by air action alone has been reduced greatly by the Allies' defensive measures. Moreover, experience in Spain, China and recently in Poland has shaken too confident belief in the power of air action to crush the morale of a civil population. There are certainly no indications that air action alone would have broken the will of the Polish nation.

Apart from that Hitler must clearly be unwilling to expose his own people to air reprisals, both because of their economic and their moral effect.

WAY OF EXHAUSTION

A second alternative might be a violent ground and air offensive on the present front of contact of the opposing armies. The Allied armies are, however, mobilised and strongly posted, with masses of reserves made available by the restricted width of the front.

Such an attempt might produce an epic struggle, with immense sacrifice of life on both sides, but it could hardly hold out prospects of decisive success, and failure to achieve a decision would only accelerate the exhaustion of German material resources which might prove irreplaceable.

Only overwhelming confidence in the quantity and quality of German troops and armaments could justify such a desperate course. Such confidence the Germans may possess, but it is opposed by equal confidence on the side of the Allies and by almost unlimited material resources which Germany does not command. The experiences of the last war can afford Germany little hope that attack under such conditions would succeed.

Furthermore, a lesson of the last war is that an offensive which is brought to a stand-still incurs the danger of counter-attack. A partial success which leaves an army in an exposed and hastily-consolidated position is in fact a source of danger. Gamelin's cautious advance before the Siegfried Line shows that he fully realises this.

Where else can the German General Staff look for an opening? If they could find one by violating neutral territory, they will not, we may be sure, be deterred by scruples, and they may think that in the Siegfried Line they hold a solid pivot of manoeuvre.

On the one flank there is Switzerland, but apart from the resistance the Swiss are capable of offering the nature of the country would restrict the scope of German operations. Moreover, the French have formidable defences, both natural and artificial, on which to meet any such thrust, and it would also be vulnerable to interference by air counter-attacks.

Unless Italy became an active partner the chances of Germany using Switzerland as a passage-way for a major invasion of France seem small, though subsidiary operations by that line are a possibility.

On the other flank the frontiers to Luxembourg, Belgium and Holland are exposed to invasion.

There can be little doubt that Luxembourg and the Ardennes district of Belgium might be overrun, although the nature of the country lends itself to delaying action, for which, in the case of Belgium, at any rate an effective organisation exists.

Further advance, by a wheel to the south, would bring the invaders up against the extension of the Maginot Line, constructed, though in less elaborate form, along France's northern frontier. An advance to the west, similarly, would encounter the formidable obstacle of the Meuse, more strongly fortified than in 1914 and held by a better-trained Belgian army.

WHERE WILL HITLER DELIVER HIS BLOW IN THE WEST?

An invasion of Luxembourg and of Belgium through the Ardennes was expected by the French in 1914, and it was to be met by an outflanking French counter-offensive; for it was erroneously believed that the Germans did not possess sufficient numbers to carry out the wider enveloping movement which von Schlieffen had planned. It was not known that troops had been found for the purpose by bringing reserve divisions to the condition of first line troops. The French counter-plan failed, therefore.

To-day the question is whether Germany has sufficient numbers of troops fit to place in the first line to cover the front of the Great Sweep of 1914. Even if she has not, can one reject the possibility of a German attempt to repeat the 1914 manoeuvre in some modified form in order to turn the line of the Belgian Meuse defences?

A SWEEP INTO BELGIUM

There are reasons, I think, why the Germans might again try to effect an enveloping movement which would bring them on to the left bank of the Meuse and into the heart of Belgium, even though they have not sufficient numbers to advance through the Ardennes as well. It may be remembered that in 1914 they protected the inner flank of their sweep from counter-attack by an advance of armies all along the line from Metz to Liege. To-day they have the Siegfried Line, more or less highly developed, from Basle to Aix-la-Chapelle, and that would form a pivot of manoeuvre. From the Moselle to Aix it is covered by difficult country which would protect it from immediate attack by the Allied armies. It could therefore be lightly held and troops saved there could be used to strengthen the offensive power of the extreme right.

If the Belgian defences were in the same condition as in 1914 the line of the Meuse might again be crossed at Liege and north of it. But the Belgian fortifications on the Meuse have been greatly strengthened and the Belgian army is in an advanced stage of mobilisation behind them.

Holland has taken precautions but not to the same degree as Belgium, and a crossing of the Meuse below the Dutch-Belgian frontier—which would turn the Belgian defences—must be looked on as a feasible operation.

We know that in 1914 the Germans considered the advisability of violating the neutrality of Holland by crossing the Limburg appendix to turn the Liege fortress instead of relying on carrying it by a coup de main.

To meet this danger, however, the new Meuse-Scheldt Canal was constructed—with strategic as well as economic purpose. It presents a formidable obstacle, though one hardly ranking with the Meuse itself.

NAZIS PLAY THE SAME OLD TUNE

London, Yesterday.

There appears to have been no cessation in the circulation by Nazi propagandists of the fabricated charge against Britain of having supplied the poison gas which is alleged to have been used against German soldiers in Poland.

Although a complete refutation of what Mr. Chamberlain has described as "an impudent and transparent falsehood" has been given in official British statements, reports from various parts of the world show that Nazi agencies are still assiduously distributing leaflets which repeat this lie.

The calculation must be done in accordance with Hitler's theory of propaganda—that if a lie is repeated sufficiently often and with sufficient assurance it will not be overtaken by a denial, however strong.

Whatever may be true of Germany itself, that is certainly a miscalculation so far as neutral opinion is concerned.

STRINGENT CONTROL

The stringency of the control of arms exports by Britain has long been well-known, and the statement that Board of Trade receipts showed that no poison gas had been sent to Poland has therefore made a profound impression.

A statement was issued on October 23 by a Swiss professor, whose original diagnosis of the condition of German soldiers started the story of gas supplied by Britain.

The professor emphasised that he had "found no evidence indicating in what circumstances poisoning had occurred."—British Wireless.

TO DISPERSE THE ALLIES

An invasion of Holland designed to expose the northern frontier of Belgium cannot be ruled out. It would, of course, still leave a long distance to be traversed before the French frontier was reached, but the Germans would probably count on large portions of the Allied armies being drawn north to Belgium's assistance. They might be met there under conditions of manoeuvre instead of behind strongly-fortified lines.

A subsidiary offensive through Switzerland, or the threat of one, might possibly be developed simultaneously in order to reduce the numbers of Allied divisions which could be sent to Belgium.

It cannot be said that any of the alternatives I have discussed is an attractive proposition and some of them entail economic and political disadvantages as well. But a desperate man may resort to desperate expedients—and in nothing I have said do I imply that a German army can in any circumstances be easily defeated.

KILLED WIFE GIRL SENT TO PRISON IN QUARREL

Describing the incident as unlucky, Mr. Justice Lindsell sentenced Lai Kwong to three months' imprisonment at the Sessions this morning when he pleaded guilty to manslaughter.

His wife died of injuries received in a quarrel with her husband, during which she was struck with a shoe.

The medical evidence showed that deceased had an unusually large spleen.

AMAH'S FIGHT AT A POLICE STATION

Two amahs, Wong Yin and Fung Yee, employed at the Kowloon City Police Station, were to-day charged with disorderly conduct.

Inspector Rogers told Mr. E. Hinsworth that, after an argument, they threw water on each other in the Yard at Station. They fought despite warning to desist.

A fine of $1 was imposed.

Sung Heung-lan, alias Sung Meiling, 21, described as an escort girl, was sentenced to four months' hard labour by Mr. T. J. Houston this morning, for theft of $500 from a dancing girl, So Siu-siu.

Det. Sgt. R. Mcvey said the girls lived in the same cubicle. The money was under the pillow of complainant's bed. Defendant spent it on clothing and jewellery and a gift to her mother.

About $150 was recovered from another girl, who was keeping it for accused.

TWO MEN INJURED IN LANDSLIDES

Two Chinese were admitted to the Kowloon Hospital yesterday suffering from injuries caused by landslides.

So Hong-ting was injured by a rock which fell on him while he was digging in a hillside in Argyle Street, and Lam Man had his leg fractured by a falling rock near the Kowloon Hospital.

FLOATING MINE ON SHIP ROUTE

Presence of a floating mine, in the vicinity of the normal steamship route between Hong Kong and Singapore, off the Indo-China coast, has been reported by the master of the s.s. Hiram.

The position of the mine when seen was given in a wireless message from the ship, at 4.30 a.m. G.M.T. as Lat. 10.505 North, Long. 108.355 E.

The message states the three of the horns of the mines were visible on the surface.

CHARITY FRAUD CASE

Two Chinese youths were before Mr. R. A. D. Forrest this morning, charged with obtaining money by false pretences.

Accused, Lei Chi-ming, (22) and Chung Yuk-chuen, (20), were alleged to have collected from residents in Shing Wo Road, pretending that they were authorised to collect subscriptions for the China Youth Association.

Defendants denied the charges, saying they were trying to sell soap and pens.

The case was adjourned. Acting Sub-Inspector Clarke is in charge.

BROKEN NECK

Pleading guilty to manslaughter of a friend, by breaking his neck during a quarrel in a baker's Shop on September 22, Yu Wai-tim, was sentenced to three months' hard labour by Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell at the Sessions this morning.

The quarrel arose over a mah-jong debt and the borrowing of money. During the quarrel Yau Kam-hoi, the dead man, stopped to pick up his clogs and accused twisted him over and struck his head on the ground. He died next day from a broken neck.

EUROPEAN LADY ROBBED

Mrs. W. E. Kirby, of Argyle Street, was the victim of a handbag snatcher while crossing Nathan Road on Saturday night. She raised an alarm and attracted the attention of Mr. Luis Chan, who chased and arrested him.

A Woman's Secret.

A woman can keep the secret of her age only so long as she is able to ward off the effects of advancing years.

How can this best be done in these days of stress, when great demands are made upon the nervous system? The essential thing is to maintain a plentiful supply of rich, pure blood to nourish the nerves and vitalise the whole system.

Charming natural colour and soft clear skin are dependent upon the blood, and looks which have been lost through impoverished blood can be regained by taking the proper remedy.

There is nothing better for the purpose than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Put yourself on a thirty-day treatment. As soon as you begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the reconstructive process will start. The blood will grow richer, will carry more vitality. Old aches and off-days will give way to new vigour and a brighter outlook on life.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are equally beneficial to men and women of all ages who are suffering from one or other of the many consequences of impoverished blood. Obtainable at all chemists.

TO-DAY'S STRANGE STORY OF REAL PEOPLENO. 89—DID WILKES BOOTH ESCAPE?

BY VINCENT TOWNE

"The body buried in Greenmount was not that of Booth," declared Basil Moxley, a pallbearer at the alleged funeral of Lincoln's assassin in Baltimore.

"I do not believe that Booth was ever killed in that barn," added Moxley who for nearly a half century had been doorkeeper in Baltimore at the Holiday Street Theatre and at Ford's Opera House. He was a trusted friend of the Booth family and cyclopedia of information concerning the stage folk of his time.

Many men have shared Moxley's doubt as to the most commonly accepted version of the capture, shooting and burial of Lincoln's assassin. According to that version the demented actor, after shooting the President, and after breaking his leg while making his escape, took refuge in Garrett's tobacco barn, near Bowling Green, Virginia. The barn was surrounded by 28 veterans of the 16th New York Cavalry, who, fearing to go in and capture one defiant man, set the building on fire and then shot Booth as he appeared to take aim at his pursuers.

The commonly accepted story of what next happened relates that Booth's body was sewed up in a saddle blanket and carried aboard the monitor Montauk, where it was laid in the carpenter's bunk of the turret. After an autopsy in Washington, it was placed in a pine gun box and secretly buried beneath the floor of a cell in the old Washington Penitentiary. After nearly four years had elapsed the great actor, Edwin Booth, persuaded President Andrew Johnson to allow the pine box to be removed to Baltimore for secret burial in Greenmount Cemetery.

Since the black tragedy of '65 there have been advanced more than 50 theories to the effect that Wilkes Booth escaped to enjoy or, at least, experience life for a considerable time after his corpse was believed to have molded in the grave. General Eckert, who was Assistant Secretary of War when Lincoln was assassinated and who later became president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, was once quoted as having confessed to his nurse, on his deathbed, that with three other men he had taken the body of Booth out on Delaware Bay and thrown it into the water. A secret service man assigned to the assassination was quoted as stating that the identification of the corpse supposed to have been Booth's was never satisfactorily made. Such doubts and contradictions reiterated by men closely concerned in the search for the assassin led to the suspicion that greed for the $75,000 reward offered for Booth by the Government resulted in the shooting of another man.

About a quarter century ago Laura Ida Booth (Mrs. L. A. Howard) an actress who has claimed to be the daughter of Wilkes Booth, announced that her father lived until 1903, when his long-troubled conscience led him to commit suicide at Enid, Oklahoma. A Memphis attorney, Finis L. Bates, who knew the Enid suicide and who believed him to have been Lincoln's assassin, published a book in support of the theory. Some years ago Mr. Bates appealed to the national House of Representatives to definitely determine the identity of the embalmed corpse of the suicide, which, for four years, had been kept by an Enid undertaker. In his communication to Congress, Mr. Bates stated:

"I knew Booth as John D. Heley while living in 1872, and was associated with him as my client until the Fall of 1877, when we separated in western Texas, he going to Leadville, Col., and I returning to Memphis. Booth left with me a small tintype for his future identification. This picture was taken some 12 years after the assassination of Lincoln and has been identified by Junius Brutus Booth, eldest nephew of John Wilkes Booth, as being the picture of his uncle. It has also been identified by the famous actor, the late Joseph Jefferson, and many others."

About forty years ago one Christopher C. Ritter, while lying very low in a hospital in Anderson, Indiana, is alleged to have unburdened his conscience by confessing that after having been initiated into the Knights of the Golden Circle by Booth, he had been pressed to take part in a kidnapping of President Lincoln, but that before the plan was carried out Booth killed the President. Accompanying the assassin to Philadelphia, Ritter claimed that he sailed with him for South America, where Booth became "Enos," the famous actor of Latin America.

According to another story, Booth became an Episcopal clergyman and settled in a Georgia town, where he was visited by his brother, Edwin Booth. He continued to limp until death and failed also to disguise his love for liquor and his imperious temper. Still another story has it that the assassin spent the latter days of his life under the name of David E. George, and that he married a Kentucky widow, their child, a daughter, winning success on the stage.

In New Orleans, Louisville, Denver, Albuquerque, San Francisco, and Montreal the man who shot Lincoln was "located" at various times. Improbable as the many theories as to his escape may seem, and after all of them have been sifted out and discarded Wilkes Booth has nevertheless bequeathed to the world a mystery that has never been solved.

Where lie the bones of the man shot in the Garrett barn, whose body was brought to Washington and dissected?

No one knows.

It is generally believed that the mound alleged to mark the assassin's grave in Greenmount Cemetery, Baltimore, covers no human remains and that for fear of vandalism the Booth family hid the corpse.

A CLOSE DECISION

We believe our readers will agree with us that no situation in Bridge could be more unpleasant to contemplate than the prospect of having the opponents bid and make a vulnerable Grand Slam. And we would certainly think long and earnestly if the opportunity presented itself to make a sacrifice bid and "cheat" our opponents out of their enormous bonus. In a recent rubber game Walter Malowan was faced with this exact situation.

The bidding:
West North East South
1 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass
Pass 5 ♠ Pass 6 ♠
6 ♠ 7 ♠ Pass Pass

North's bidding is worthy of comment. His cue-bid of two spades over Mr. Malowan's bid of one spade is the strongest type of "takeout double."

HIGH CARD VALUES OF THE FOUR-BID SYSTEM. This extremely useful bid is used by all fine players and means in effect: "Partner, I have a very fine hand that includes first-round control of our opponents' suit (either the Ace or a void). Take me out in your best suit and we will continue to game and possibly a Slam."

After North's cue-bid, East interjected a shut-out bid of four spades, which effectively silenced South. However North, still determined to force his partner to show his best suit, made a second cue-bid. After South's six-heart takeout Mr. Malowan, willing to sacrifice, bid six spades. Rather than accept a penalty, North decided to try for a Grand Slam; and Mr. Malowan then had to decide whether to make a further sacrifice or attempt to defeat his opponents. Mr. Malowan knew that his only possible defensive trick lay in diamonds. But, he reasoned, unless North held an exceptionally long, solid club suit, it was quite likely that South would be unable to obtain a sufficient number of discards.

This proved to be the case for, while South was able to throw two diamonds on dummy's club suit, he still had one loser which he could not get rid of and the Grand Slam was defeated.

Yesterday you were Merwin Maier's partner and held:

♠ XXX
♦ A Q XX
♦ K 10 X
♣ A XX

The bidding:
Maier Schenken You Burnstone
1 ♠ Pass (?)

ANSWER: Your correct bid is three hearts. You have splendid support for your partner and a tremendous high card holding, but it is unlikely that you can make a Slam unless partner can invite it.

Score 100% for three hearts, 60% for four hearts (should indicate more distribution and less high cards), 40% for two clubs or two diamonds (unnecessary artificial bids), 0 for other bids.

Federation Win First Leg In Governor's Cup Series

SATURDAY'S SPORT

NAVYLIGHT'S FAST LAST HALF MILE : LADY HOCKEY CHAMPIONS COMMENCE SEASON IN GREAT STYLE.

RACING FIVE favourites — Confusion Bay (Mr. Black), Strathbannock (Mr. Black), Navylight (Mr. Moller), Wilber (Mr. Sung) and Royal Highness (Mr. Needa) — won at the Jockey Club's 11th Extra Meeting on Saturday. Boolat Bay (Mr. Needa), Courting Eve (Mr. Pih) and Brutus (Mr. Pih) were made favourites, but Boolat Bay was the only one to place.

Enough has been written and said concerning Navylight's win in the Hong Kong St. Leger so I will say only that it was a grand race in every sense of the word. A comparison of the times set by Navylight, which led all the way round, and Liberty Bay, which established the China pony record on February 20, 1933, when winning the Challenge Cup from Gay Crusader (Mr. Wong), the only other contender, makes interesting reading.

	Liberty Bay	Navylight
1st quarter	30.3	31.2
2nd quarter	30.1	32.2
3rd quarter	30.2	31.3
4th quarter	29.2	31.4
5th quarter	30.4	31.2
6th quarter	30.3	28.4
7th quarter	30.4	26.1
	Liberty Bay	Navylight
Mile	2.00.3	2.07.1
1 1/4 Miles	2.31.2	2.38.3
1 1/2 Miles	3.02.0	3.07.1
1 3/4 Miles	3.32.4	3.33.1

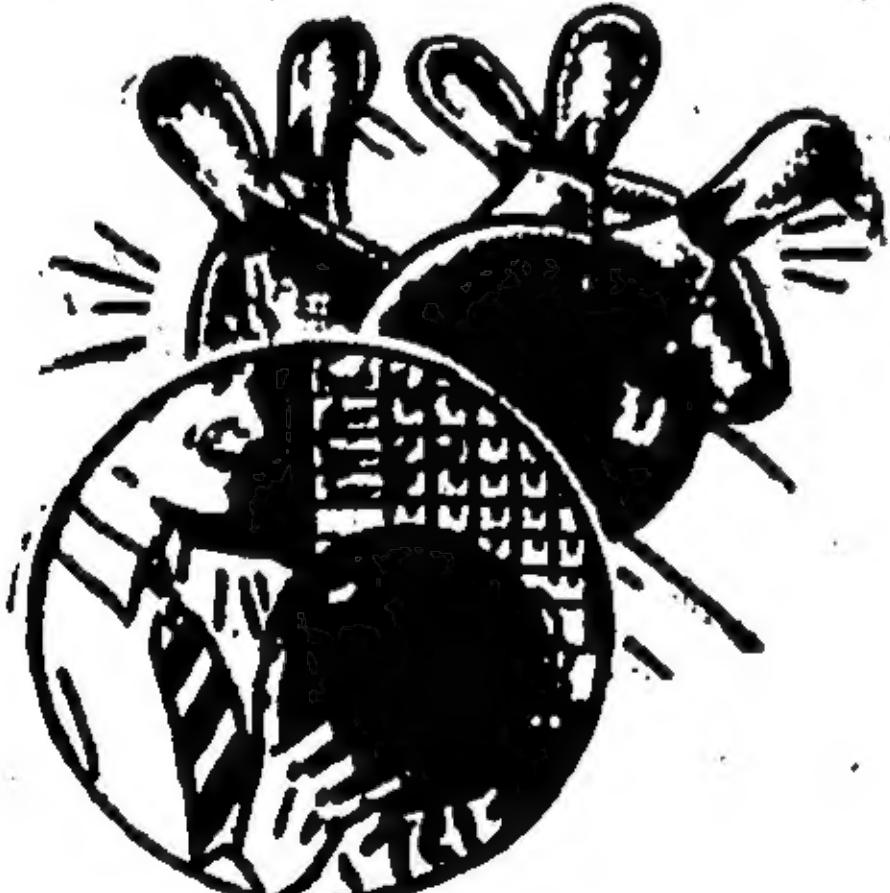

Confusion Bay's record-shattering run over a mile compares as follows:

	1st	2nd	3rd	4th
qr.	qr.	qr.	qr.	qr.
Confusion Bay	27.0	27.3	29.2	30.0
Diana Bay (1933)	27.3	27.2	29.4	30.1
Rose Elect. (1939)	29.1	27.2	28.3	29.4

The record of 1.55.0 was bettered by a full second by Confusion Bay, which was not extended by Bear Claw, which ran second to Rose Elect when it equalled the record earlier this year.

Wilber's win was a popular one and it must have encouraged its popular owner as a change of mafoo did not please Wilber very much. This temperamental little pony, however, came through just in time to snatch victory from Phoenix by a short head.

RUGBY * * * * * THE match between Club and Army and Police and Navy clearly justified the innovation, and if Carter, Cochrane and Paul had been playing as exciting a game as possible would probably have been witnessed. Stevens was missed from full-back and I understand he has left the Colony for an indefinite period. Richards again gave a fine display on the wing and it is hoped his knee injury will yield quickly to treatment. He and Stewart are definitely our best wing-threequarters.

In the next such game it would be interesting to see how D. H. Taylor would fare at full-back, Wall at stand-off and Fay at centre threequarter.

Castleton seems assured of a regular place in the Club pack, being an excellent hooker and a definite asset in the loose.

Waite and Boe gave good displays for Army "A", and it seems a pity that they should be left out of the mixed matches. Bax again tackled very soundly when he was able to get near his man, but he is a little slow to recover. I understand, incidentally, that he is a very useful tennis player.

* * * * *

HOCKEY THE Caer Clark Cup League season has started, and "Y" Ladies, champions for the past three seasons, look to have a very useful team. Miss

Bockler, centre-forward last season, did very well on the left-wing and showed good combination with Mrs. Gardner, while Mrs. Starbuck, back to the game after an absence of two seasons, showed up promisingly at centre-half. Miss M. McCaw gave an excellent display at right-half, tackling well and feeding her forwards with judicious passes. Last season she played at centre-half, but she is settling down amazingly well to her new position. Miss Stokes was not so impressive at left-half and she will have to improve greatly if she is to keep the indispensible Miss K. Pocock out of the team. C.B.A. made a bold experiment when they transferred Miss D. Moss from goal to centre-forward, but it should not be long before they discover that Miss Moss is much more valuable between the posts. Miss I. Woolley, Interport captain, worked hard to hold up the champions' fast-moving attack, but she did not receive the necessary support.

"Y" Ladies' juniors did better than expected when they held C.B.A. to a goalless draw in the Brawn Cup series. Mrs. V. Bradbury, inside-right, played better in the second half when she went to centre-forward, while Miss S. Russell was more impressive as inside-right than at centre-forward. Mrs. Herrington did well in goal and saved "Y" a point. Miss E. Woolley was the only dangerous C.B.A. forward, and she required very close watching. Mrs. Mackay, formerly of Seaforts' Ladies, was a bulwark in defence, her hard-hitting being one of the features of the game.

Miss Marr again gave a dazzling display for H.K. Ladies, and opposing left-halves are in for fireworks if I am not mistaken. Possessing not only speed and ball control, she flashes across perfect centres. Miss Gray was very sound in their defence, while for C.B.S. Miss J. Moss excelled at centre-forward, Miss B. Goodwin was very reliable in defence and Miss S. Rousseau did well at right-half.

* * * * *

CRICKET DUE to camp, most leading cricketers had a day-off. At Sookunpoo, however, University held an I.R.C. "A" team to 3 wickets, S. Mahmood securing 6 for 43 after at one time having 6 for 13. G. A. Goodban, Headmaster of D.B.S., flogged the School bowling to hit 19 boundaries in his 104 retired for K.C.C. Juniors. Barros of Recreio scored 54 out of 72 against C.B.S., who were dismissed for 35. Whatman, Godby and Ratcliffe all topped the half century in the game at Sookunpoo.

ASSOCIATION RALLY IN SECOND HALF

(By "REFEREE")

In spite of a great improvement in the Hong Kong Football Association team after the interval, Hong Kong Chinese Amateur Athletic Federation won the first game of the Governor's Cup competition by 5 goals to 3 before a large crowd.

Both sides were forced to make several changes. Bright and Honniball were brought in at right and left-half respectively, in place of Wilkinson and Coles, while Mak Shui-hon took the place of Lee Kwok-wai at back for the Chinese team. Other changes in the Federation team were Hsu King-seng as pivot and Lau Chi-tsui left-half.

The Chinese were far the better team in the first half and but for the good work of Hendy and Sheehan they would have held a bigger lead at the interval than 4 goals to 1.

Williamson had his first real test against Lee Wai-tong and did as well as could be expected. Bright, at right-half, started shakily but improved greatly in the second half and more than held his own against Hau Ching-to. In the first half he sent Fowler through with several neat passes and in the second period was again prominent with his distribution.

Honniball, brought in at the last minute, was in great form and did very well against the wily Fung King-cheong and Yeung Shui-yick. He was often hasty in his clearances but his tackling and feeding were good, particularly in the first half.

Sheehan and Hendy played well as a pair but short interpassing forced them out of position several times.

Robinson brought off several good saves, and in the first half was kept continually on the move with shots from all directions.

FORWARDS LACK COMBINATION

Combination was lacking in the attack. Middleton, on the left-wing, was speedy and sent over several good centres, while Thorburn, his partner, was hardworking, using his weight to good advantage.

Hossack sent in some hard drives but he was too inclined to hold on to the ball and was often robbed. He had hard luck on two occasions when he missed the post narrowly.

A. V. Gosano distributed the ball well and contented himself with making the openings for the other forwards. Fowler, on the right wing, was good in spasms but he spoiled many chances by slowness in passing.

Lee Ting-sang and Mak Shui-hon were not so steady under pressure. Mak was erratic in his clearances and his placing of the ball left much to be desired.

The Chinese intermediate line was a hard working trio. Hsu King-seng, in the pivotal position, shone with his tackling and generally had the better of Hossack, while on his left Lau Tin-sang gave him good support.

CHINESE SCORE FIRST

The Chinese opened the scoring early in the first half through Chow Man-chi and a few minutes later Lee Wai-tong netted after Robinson had left his goal. Chow and Lee again scored before the interval, Hossack reducing the arrears from a perfect pass from Gosano.

In the second half the Association team did most of the attacking and were rewarded by two goals through Gosano and Fowler.

Heartened by these successes the Association team crowded on pressure and Cheung Wing-choi was repeatedly called on to save. Yeung Shui-yick made the game safe for the Chinese when he scored shortly before time.

Goals by Durgha Singh and Krishna Singh gave Kumaons a 2-0 win over Signals in Third Division yesterday.

POLICE wasted many opportunities against St. Joseph's by sending in long range shots which Tsang dealt with ease. The Police forwards also FOOTBALL hung on to the ball too long when on the attack with the result the Saints were given time to recover.

South China "A" made changes in their team and were not seen at their best against Middlesex, who were unlucky not to secure both points. The Chinese badly missed Fung King-cheong and Leung Wing-chiu, both of whom were on the injured list.

Engineers, playing 10 men soon after the start, did well to beat Kwong Wah by the odd goal. For Kwong Wah, Lam Ching-song was a clever custodian, while Chin Chi-fun and Henry Young were often dangerous in the forward line, and had they been better supported by their halves they might have scored more than once.

No fault could be found with the Engineers' side as every player gave of his best. Chong Cheung-pak, left-back, and Howton, centre-forward, were particularly outstanding, although Howton was not seen to the best advantage as he was too well watched.

International were very unfortunate not to have beaten 20th Heavy Battery, as Delgado, their pivot, put through his own goal in a melee in the goalmouth during the last few minutes of the game.

The pick of the Gunners were Atkins, Findlay in attack, and Hodgson and Taylor in defence. Minshull in goal had an off day and did not shine. International were best served by Campos and Rocha.
